Frequently Asked Questions

Teen Cancer America respects your privacy and values the trust you place in us when giving personal information. Please review the questions below and make sure your questions are answered before signing.

-Will my personal medical information be disclosed? : It is your choice and that of your caregivers (if under 18) to disclose any medical information. Teen Cancer America will not share any personal medical information without your permission.

-What happens after my photos go public: Once stories, photos, audio, and videotape enter the public domain, it's important to understand that other outlets are free to use them, too. For example, photos and stories in the Los Angeles Times are often picked up by news wires, reprinted by other newspapers and websites, and broadcast by radio and television stations.

Before you sign this form, make sure you are comfortable with the amount of public recognition you may receive. Teen Cancer America cannot control how -- or for how long -- news outlets use or distribute your information, photos and videotape for future stories. We also cannot guarantee that other organizations will not display your publicized images or information on their own websites.

-Can I withdraw my consent? I understand that my consent can be withdrawn at anytime in writing to Teen Cancer America at 1001 Westwood Blvd. Suite 300 Los Angeles, California 90024. If my images have already been utilized prior to my withdrawal, I understand that it is a possibility that images may not be removed.
